Governor Kean gives approval

Independence for New Jersey state colleges

By Tom Boud

An autonomy proposal, which allows the state's nine colleges to conduct a greater part of their operations independently, became effective July 9 when Gov. Thomas Kean signed the legislation.

The autonomy bill enable MSC and other N.J. state colleges to disburse its own checks, handle its own cash, transfer funds from one account to another, collect and keep its own revenues, (using tuition fees as part of the allocated college budget instead of transmitting them to the state treasury, for example) and manage its own purchasing and contracting affairs.

However, some activities such as collective bargaining, the civil service structure for college employees, academic programming, and fiscal year appropriation requests are still subject to state control.

The installation of autonomy entails three phases over a period of three years. The first phase includes purchasing and contracting, travel policies, payment authorization, and internal auditing. It is expected to be completed by late November of this year.

The second phase encompasses general accounting, cash management, revenue management, disbursing operations, external auditing, equipment planning and construction, and institutional borrowing. This phase is slated for completion by July 1, 1987.

The college will gain the bulk of its autonomy powers during phase two.

The last phase, involving the payroll system and risk management (insurance) should be finished by July 1, 1989.

A clause in the autonomy law immediately permits MSC and all other state colleges to grant tuition waivers, determine student fees, to be exempt from the Vacancy Review Board, and to appoint a college president without seeking board of Higher Education approval.

An autonomy planning commission has been organized by MSC President Donald Walters. The commission reports to Vice President for Administration and Finance William Griffith and is headed by Assistant Vice President for Administration and Finance Barry Cohen.

MSC awarded $5.4 million challenge grant

A $5.7 million Governor's Challenge Grant was awarded to the MSC fine and performing arts program over the summer.

According to Donald A. Mattran, dean of MSC's School of Fine and Performing Arts, "The program is designed to bridge the gap between academic preparation in the arts and career entry."

Described as potentially "one of the most exciting programs of its kind in the nation" by the panel of educators which recommended its funding, MSC's plan provides a unique program of professional training and career entry for students seeking careers in the arts.

The plan establishes on-going relationships with professional artists and arts organizations working closely with students in masterclasses, coaching sessions and professional perfor-

On Friday, July 18, the New Jersey Board of Higher Education endorsed the out-of-state consultants' recommendations and called for awards totalling $14 million from the pool established by Gov. Thomas H. Kean as a "challenge" to the nine state colleges to develop programs of excellence that will make New Jersey high education a model for the nation.

Speaking of the Governor's Challenge Grant Program, now in its second year, MSC President Donald E. Walters said, "We are delighted to be the recipients of the largest in this year's round of Challenge Grant awards." Walters added, "It is the largest grant this college has ever received. It is also, to the best of our knowledge, the largest grant of its kind ever awarded to an educational institution for programming in the arts."

Other state colleges receiving Challenge Grant awards were Ramapo, $3.4 million; Trenton State, $2.9 million, and Edison, $1.8 million.

"We are very grateful to Gov. Kean for his extraordinary leadership in creating the Challenge Grant Program, and to the Department of Higher Education for providing the means for this major breakthrough in arts education."

The review panel also recommended MSC's proposal for a program in critical thinking be approved in concept and receive funding in the next round of Challenge Grant competition.

That proposal calls for establishment of an Institute for Critical Thinking whose purpose would be to serve as a catalyst in the development of educational excellence at the college.

Through a variety of means, the program would enable faculty to help sharpen students' thinking abilities.

Dorms are left "Bohn" dry

At 12 midnight on Sept. 1 approximately 2000 MSC dorm residents were informed that they were not to use the bathrooms due to a water main break on campus.

Residents of Bohn Hall are left to use the lower floor bathrooms. Floors one and two have been designated for men and the third floor for women. The average bathroom has about four stalls and three showers. Bohn Hall has 600 residents in its 16 floors.

Matthew Coyle, a Bohn Hall resident said, "They've kept us in the dark about what's going on. No temporary facilities have been provided for us. These are really unsanitary conditions."

According to Gale Raucher, also a Bohn Hall resident, "I spoke with Lucy Nikovics, secretary to Dr. Raymond Stover, director of residence life. Nikovics said that the water is expected to be on by Thurs. afternoon. Work crews attempted to repair the break by welding it but this attempt failed. They are now waiting for an ordered part from Texas."

The bathrooms will be unlocked when the water break main is repaired and when the dorms have acceptable water pressure conditions.

In the meantime the residents will be forced to use the designated dorm bathrooms or the public bathrooms in the school buildings. These public bathrooms do not have shower facilities. If there are any questions concerning this matter you can contact the dorm directors.

Posters like the following have been posted on all Bohn Hall bathrooms:

Theft wave hits MSC at summer's end

By Tom Boud

A string of thefts plagued the campus a few days prior to the fall semester, according to campus police.

CAMPUS POLICE REPORT

On Aug. 25, a staff member of the Student Center reported that someone entered a locked closet and stole a VCR worth $800. The actual time of the theft is unknown.

A female student reported that the outside rear mirror of her car parked in lot 18 was bent during the night of Aug. 25-26.

In Blanton Hall lobby at 3 p.m., a roll bag was stolen after a male student left it unattended for several minutes. Total loss was $30.

An entire assortment of tools belonging to the Connecticut Lamination contract company was lifted sometime between 12 a.m. and 6 p.m. the same day.

On Aug. 27 at 12:30 a.m., Sgt. Paul

Cell arrested a disorderly drunk male by the Clove Rd. apartments after responding to a call of a man "acting crazy". Officers Rose Vacca and Debra Poole assisted Cell in the arrest.

9:30 p.m., that same day a female student's purse was left unguarded in the McEachern Music Building. The purse was later recovered intact in the men's room shortly after. Total value was $20 dollars.

During the night of Aug. 27-28, someone entered a 1973 AMC Jeep in lot 17 and stole an overnight parking decal worth $20.

A female student resident of the Clove Rd. apartments told police that sometime between 7 a.m. Aug. 26 and 5 p.m. Aug. 28, 20 slips (clothing) amounting to $400.00 were taken from her room.

A male resident in the same area alerted campus police that his wallet containing $150.00 in cash was stolen from his room.

"Image building" for SGA

By Kathy McDonough

At the first SGA meeting of the fall semester President Mark Brancato stressed the importance of "image building" for the SGA.

SGA NEWS

SGA representatives will be available at the Student Center information desk which will make the SGA a more visible to the student body.

Plans for Homecoming '86 were discussed. There are a lot of exciting things planned for the week of Oct. 13, including a comedy show, lip sync contest, parade, and the big game.

It was announced that the Rathskeller will be open this semester. Due to high operating costs, alcohol will be served only on Thurs. nights and during special promotions. An advisory committee has been formed in order to improve programming and decor, and to promote a better social atmosphere.

In other news, the following cabinet appointments were approved: Judy Rosenbush, vice president of academic affairs; Robert Acerra, director of programming; Perry Schwarz, vice president of internal affairs; June Harmon, director of services; Oren Zeve, assistant to the president, and Julianne Coyne, deputy attorney general.

Autonomy bills

"President Walters has created this commission as a means to develop plans for implementing autonomy," Cohen said. Cohen added that the commission has just begun to meet in order to work on the phase 1 autonomies.

Besides Cohen, the commission is staffed by Marshall Butler of the registrar's office, Dr. Betsy Clark, health professions; Richard Davis, director of personnel; Dr. Suresh Desai, dean of the school of business administration, Dr. Nicholas Michelli, dean of the school of professional studies, Charles Moore, director of budget and fiscal planning, Dr. Joseph Moore, history department; Dr. Wendy Oxman, chairperson of the fine arts department, Lee Primiano, chairman of the law and taxation department; Jerome Quinn, director of institutional planning, and Lynn Truesdell, director of the computer center. Vice President for Administration and Finance William Griffith is also serving on the commission as an ex-officio member.

SGA Board of Trustees Representative Mike Rodak expressed his support for autonomy. "Autonomy gives more bargaining power to students who are concerned about important issues such as tuition and housing."

Rodak added, "This new law will spare the administration a lot of red tape when it comes to finishing projects and ordering equipment."

Rodak referred to past problems with the proposal. "In 1985, the autonomy bills were vetoed by Kean after the legislature weakened them by making amendments that the governor didn't like. Thanks to bipartisan support and Kean's interest in autonomy, the bills were passed."

Autonomy: no losers

A thousand kudos for the New Jersey State Legislature and Governor Kean.

When Kean signed two bills granting autonomy to the New Jersey state colleges, he ushered in a new era for MSC, a "new beginning," of sorts.

The passage of these bills allows the state colleges a financial freedom they have never had before. They now have the power to collect and keep their own revenues, handle their own cash, and manage their own affairs.

For MSC administrators, the days of bureaucratic red tape and the ever-present feeling that things are out of their hands are one step closer to becoming a memory.

The autonomy bills could not have been passed a moment too soon for MSC. Last year, some of you may remember, the dishwashing system at the Freeman Hall cafeteria broke down. Under the pre-autonomy rules, the college had to obtain three competitive bids for a new dishwasher before being allowed to purchase a replacement. As a result, the cafeteria went almost the entire semester without the services of a dishwasher.

With the new independence the colleges have just received, problems like this could no longer occur. Instead of having to wait, the colleges now have the "permission" to go out and act on their own behalf, for their own good.

Yes, there are a lot of faculty members and college officials who are very happy at this point in time. But what does autonomy mean to the students?

Actually, autonomy means as much to the people who frequent Partridge Hall and the Student Center as it does those in the offices of College Hall.

With the shift in control from Trenton to MSC, the MSC students now have more bargaining power than ever to influence and affect the campus community. Whereas previously the voice of the MSC college student had to be transported by means somewhat along the lines of carrier pigeon, to Trenton, now the students have the "source" right on campus.

Instead of dealing with the state, which is detached from the college atmosphere, MSC students with ideas can offer them straight to the people who make the decisions. In the past, the students would speak but Trenton was under no obligation to listen. Now, with the administration in direct contact with the students and solely responsible for the campus' success, student input is not only more readily accepted, but also essential to the growth and development of the college.

Through the administration, we can have a voice in the decision-making process- but only if we bother to speak up. Autonomy is not only for campus officials to use to their advantage. It is also a chance for the students, those people for whom this campus was created, to help make MSC the best state college in New Jersey.

Baby M and the mess it made

BOSTON- Her parents can not agree on anything these days, not even on her name. Her biological mother, Mary Beth Whitehead, calls the five month old girl Sara. Her biological father, William Stern, calls her Melissa. The court in Bergen County, N.J., just calls her Baby M.

The case that will come up on Sept. 10 is no ordinary custody fight between estranged partners. These two parents never had a relationship; they had a deal. The intimacy was not one of man and woman, but of sperm and ovum. Mary Beth Whitehead was hired to be a surrogate mother.

When Stern, a biochemist, and his wife Elizabeth, a pediatrician, discovered they have children, they went to an infertility clinic. There they met Whitehead, a 29 year old mother of two, the wife of a sanitation worker. And there, they drew up a contract.

Whitehead agreed to be artificially inseminated with Stern's sperm, to conceive and carry a baby for the couple in return for $10,000. She signed on the dotted line, a promise that she would not "form or attempt to form a parent-child relationship" with the baby she carried.

But when the baby was born, Whitehead welched on the deal.

After turning her over to the Sterns, refusing their money, she "borrowed" her back. When the Sterns tried to reclaim the baby, the Whiteheads ran off with her. Finally on July 31, Baby M was tracked down in Florida and returned to the Sterns in New Jersey.

"People treat this like we're fighting over a car," says Whitehead now. "But she's not a possession, she's a part of me." She is also a part of William Stern.

What is notable about this custody wrangle is its utter predictability. This was, everyone in the field will agree, a case waiting to happen.

When the first stories written about surrogate motherhood made their way into the media, it sounded as if the biological mother suffered nothing more damaging than stretch marks. It sounded as if surrogate mothers were just an easy helpmate for the infertile. But there was always that question hovering in the air: "What if she changes her mind?"

Could the biological mother be held forcibly to a contract for the sale of her egg and use of her womb? If she reneged, could the biological father demand back his money, or his genes? If she changed her mind, what would happen to the baby?

The sad human part of this drama is that neither the Whiteheads nor the Sterns predicted her emotions. "I was completely devastated having the child taken from my arms," Whitehead wrote after the fact. "I felt like I was used for one purpose and was no longer needed or wanted."

This was exactly what she had been promised: to be no longer needed or wanted. But is it something a person can promise?

I don't know how the courts will deal with this question. There is very little law governing surrogacy so far. The technology of parenthood has run far ahead of the courts.

It is possible, assuming blood tests confirm Stern's fatherhood, that they deal with it as a contract case; testing whether it is legal to make such a deal and illegal to break it. They may deal with it as a straight custody dispute.

I do not believe that anyone should be able to sign away parental rights before they have even born the child. A baby is not a piece of goods and human emotions do not make for neat contracts. But at the very least, a mother should have a matter of days after delivery to change her mind. If she does, she should have an equal right to custody.

Does that muddy any agreement for surrogate motherhood? Does that increase the risks for the couples who want a child this way? Absolutely. A biological father could end up without even visitation rights!

But the opposite scenario is more unsettling. If a mother can legally turn over the rights to her womb, then the ethic of the marketplace has won. Pregnancy becomes a service industry and babies are a product for sale.

I do not know what the end of the story will be for Baby M. I suspect that the M stands for Messy. The Sterns, the Whiteheads and the baby have formed an emotional triangle. But they have also become the stars of a cautionary tale about the surrogate motherhood industry itself. Be wary of people with contracts in their hands who promise a real easy deal on a brand new baby.

Urgent! Read this!!!

By Jim Nicosia
Editor-in Chief
The Montclarion

Aha! Caught you! Little did you know that, when the cute little headline caught your attention, you would be tricked into reading a letter from the editor. Wait! Don't turn the page just yet! You've already started reading and there's still more for me to say, so why stop now?

OK, your first question is probably something along the lines of, "Why, if this is a letter from the editor, didn't you just call it 'A letter from the editor'?" This is a formidable first question, I must admit. So, let's answer it by looking at some pertinent facts.

Only 18.2375% of all college students admit to reading letters from the editor, and an estimated 1.6% who read them but won't admit it.

Of these people, 68% read letters from the editor only to see if their name is mentioned. Well, nobody's name is in this one. This leaves us somewhere in the vicinity of 5.1% of all college students who would actually read this letter under normal circumstances.

But wait, there's more. You see, surveys show that 93% of all incoming students to MSC are already sick and/or tired of being welcomed to the campus. So adding that to our equation, we find an even more reduced number of people willing to read a letter from the editor on the first Thursday of the semester telling them, "Hi, Welcome to MSC. I'm sure you're going to love it here, etc., etc., etc."

So, you see, if I hadn't come up with a nifty way of opening up this letter, only about 23.6 people would be reading it now.

OK, so before you start asking, "So why is he writing this?" I'm going to tell you why.

Despite all the speeches you undoubtedly heard during orientation and such, about how much everyone wishes you success and prosperity in your four years here, one fact remains: MSC can be a great place, if you want it to be.

I've left all the academic information in the qualified hands of the deans and officials who have already given you their ideas as to what MSC holds for you academically. Outside of class, MSC remains an undefined entity. It really is what you make of it.

Whatever your major or interests, there is a club, group, organization, or bunch of guys hanging out in front of the game room waiting for your input (OK, so maybe search the part about me guys in front of the game room). I can assure you that, in most cases, you won't be just a number in any organization you choose to grace with your presence. Speaking at least from The Montclarion's point of view, there's a lot of hands-on experience you can gain by making room 410 in the Student Center Annex one of your regular hang-out spots.

I can honestly tell you, MSC didn't become a fun place for me until I did become involved in The Montclarion. I'm sure you'll hear similar stories from members of other groups, too. Doing something you like with people who enjoy the same things can only make MSC a more attractive place for you.

Anyway, in this guide, we have attempted to provide you with just a taste of the MSC campus and vicinity. You'll find a complete (we hope) list of all the clubs, activities, and services at MSC. Also, we have provided an overview of restaurants, theaters, and museums in the Montclair area. And for sports lovers, the complete Fall sports schedule has been reprinted for you on page 12.

Well, that about wraps it up for me. I hope you find this guide informative and helpful. Live long and prosper.

From the president's desk

To those of you returning to the campus, I am delighted to be able to formally welcome you back for another challenging year at MSC. To the new freshman class, more than 1,200 strong, I extend an equally hearty welcome to the MSC community and your new "home away from home."

I have awaited your arrival this year for two primary reasons. The first and most obvious is to return the campus to its usual pace. In the summer, without the hustle-bustle of our full 14,000-member student body, the MSC campus is understandably not the same.

The second reason for anticipating your return is the urge to fill you in on some significant developments in the growth of the College which occurred after you left in May. Those of us who stayed behind spent an unusually busy summer laying the foundations for a new, bold thrust toward excellence in academics and administrative management suiting our reputation as one of the finest colleges in New Jersey.

While you were away, the State Legislature passed, and the Governor signed, an important piece of legislation which granted "autonomy" to New Jersey's state colleges. This is of particular importance to MSC because it allows the College more flexibility in fiscal management, and it puts MSC and the other state colleges on par with colleges and universities throughout the country which control a greater measure of their destinies and chart their own visions of the future. Before this legislation, MSC was treated the same as any other state agency, such as public safety, health, commerce and other departments of state government. Yet, because of the unique nature of education, the bureaucratic systems stifles the flexibility and vitality of the state colleges.

Another noteworthy accomplishment which took place during the summer will yield tremendous benefits for the entire campus community. In keeping with its official designation as a "center of excellence in the fine and performing arts," MSC came away the big winner in the Governor's Challenge Grant Program this year, taking the lion's share of a specially-funded appropriation which "challenged" the state colleges to submit competitive proposals geared toward establishing innovative programs of excellence.

As a result of the award, the College will receive $5.7 million over the next three years to implement a far-ranging program of training in dance, theater, music, broadcasting, the visual arts, and arts management.

Joining the College by staging campus performances, establishing residencies, providing rehearsal and coaching sessions, conducting masterclasses and offering MSC students the opportunity to perform with their professional companies will be the National Orchestra Association, the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, the Alvin Ailey American Dance Center, the New Jersey Chamber Music Society, New Jersey Network Television, The Whole Theatre, The Ensemble Studio Theatre, DanceCompas and Metropolitan Opera star Jerome Hines.

As far as can be determined, this award is the largest art programming grant ever won by anyone anywhere. The aim of the grant is to establish MSC a regionally and nationally recognized arts training program which will ease transitions into arts careers for MSC graduates.

While considerably less active during the summer, the campus wasn't exactly dormant. Learning took place in our usual Summer Sessions programs and by a younger contingent of students enrolled in the College's Health Careers Program and its Academic Foundations and Academically Talented Young Student Program. Additionally, the Legal Studies Program reported a highly successful experience from those attending the Court Interpreters Program conducted on campus for the second summer, and our new summer theater, SummerFest, enjoyed a season of rave reviews from critics and audience alike.

You will no doubt notice some unfamiliar faces among the faculty and administrative staff. As you encounter them, I know you will extend a welcome. Although there were few students around when they made their decisions to come on board, their decisions were based at least in part on the descriptions of the student body provided by those who know you. I am confident that they'll be even more impressed upon personally getting to know you.

As usual, the Office of Student Affairs, the Student Government Association and the many campus clubs and organizations have planned for you an exciting menu of activities and sports events throughout the year. Be sure to take advantage of as many of these as you can. I assure you they will enhance your college experience immeasurably.

Dr. Donald E. Walters
President

A note from the SGA president

It's here— I know we want to deny it, but the Fall Semester is back! We have to hang up our beach chairs, wipe the sand off our feet, and cap the Coperton. It's time to think about the new Bamberger's Fall collection, the scent of autumn, football, and an exciting year of fun programming.

This year, more than ever, the Student Government Association is dedicated to providing MSC students the best in entertainment and the finest services around. Look for your favorite summer movies, including "Back to School" and "Top Gun." Also, recognizing MSC's unquenchable desire to dance, the SGA, through its organizations, is seeking to fulfill that desire by sponsoring various "Club Nites."

Watch for rafting trips, Caribbean getaways, ski weekends, the Winter Ball, first-rate comics, bands, interesting speakers, and any other exciting events that SGA organizations plan.

Homecoming '86 is going to be bigger and better than last year, with a week-long list of events and programs that are guaranteed to stimulate fun provided you come out and participate. For those of you who missed the last Lip Synch contest, be the first on line for tickets, because it's back! The New York City Swing Band will be coming to rock MSC that week, so be prepared for an invigorating evening of old and new music, blended together to provide a musical event only the Swing Band can deliver.

The best is yet to come, when on Saturday, October 18, we watch the reenactment of the Alamo—the defeat of the William Paterson Pioneers by the MSC Indians!! Come out to support the team in what will prove to be the best football game of the season. There will be many other events that week, so watch for details. Homecoming '86 begins Monday, October 13.

Mentioned earlier was service, and service you will get! The SGA's reason for existing is to represent the MSC student body in the best possible way, and to provide top-of-the-line services that are designed especially for the students. For information, stop in the SGA office, Room 103 of the Student Center Annex, or try the new SGA Information Center located at the Student Center Information Desk.

Any comments? Suggestions? Critiques? What's your opinion? We'd like to know. Please let us know what you, the student, think about the SGA. Please be constructive because your helpful comments and input can only serve to make improvements. This is really the first time a major effort will be made to poll student opinions, so your participation is vitally needed to make this "feedback" program work.

It's here, MSC. Fall is back! Let's get into gear for a good semester. To the freshmen and other new students, I extend my warmest welcome on behalf of the entire SGA. To the seniors, this is the "last stand," the "Big One," Graduation City! Make this last year count for the best! Of course, let's not forget the sophomores and juniors who tend to be the backbone of MSC—being there to help new students come in and standing tall to comfort crying seniors as they leave.

Again, take advantage of all that MSC and your SGA have to offer. I think you will be pleasantly surprised at what you'll find.

—Mark J. Brancato

The arts thrive in downtown Montclair

A rewarding college experience must include more than lectures, textbooks and brain-killing beer parties. This is the time to pursue your higher interests, to expand your aesthetic experience-- and Montclair is the place to be. While MSC offers a variety of cultural programming, your search for artistic diversion need not be confined to campus. Montclair is renowned for its active cultural life, which includes theatre, film, music and art. It's a great place to explore, see, experience and learn.

One of Montclair's most important cultural institutions is the Whole Theatre on Bloomfield Avenue, distinguished by its fine professional casts and quality programming. Some of the greatest names in theatre have graced the stage at the Whole Theatre. This season includes "Pops" by resident playwright Romulus Linney, "The Sea Gull" by Anton Chekhov and "Grown Ups" by Jules Feiffer. Also, founder Olympia Dukakis has expanded the theater's activities to include musical concerts, comedy cabarets and theatre classes. Ticket prices are very reasonable, but they sell quickly because of the theater's small size.

An even more intimate theater is the Studio Playhouse of Upper Montclair, which features musicals as well as comedy and drama. The 1986-87 season opens with "The Lion in Winter" by James Goldman and "Scrambled Feet," a musical revue by John Driver.

Movie buffs can choose from three Montclair cinemas to catch the hottest new films. The Bellevue Theater is located on Bellevue Avenue; the Claridge and the Wellmont are both on Bloomfield Avenue. There are also many video rental stores, including one next to the Bellevue Theater, if you're lucky enough to own a VCR.

Montclair also offers frequent opportunities to enjoy classical music. Local ensembles and choirs perform in the town's churches, and special concerts are given in the Montclair High School Auditorium. High-brow fans will not want to miss the New Jersey Chamber Music Society's performances at the Union Congregational Church, Upper Montclair.

The Montclair Art Museum is an important center for the visual arts. This season's highlights will include masterpieces from the American Painting Collection, an exhibition of American Indian basketweaving, and lectures on art and fashion, in addition to a Sunday afternoon classical concert series beginning November 2.

For history buffs, the Israel Crane House provides an interesting diversion. Tours are offered by hostesses in authentic 18th century garb. Early American cooking can be sampled here amid a period setting. Craft shows and sales also take place; lessons in weaving and other period crafts are offered.

If shopping and browsing are more your style, Montclair is a shopper's paradise. There is a wealth of interesting little shops featuring antiques, books, clothing, gifts and practically everything else. Bloomfield Avenue is a major town center; Church Street, off Bloomfield, offers unusual boutiques and restaurants in a quaint, "Village-type" atmosphere. Other centers of business include Watchung Plaza and Upper Montclair Center on Valley Road.

Good students always need a good library. There is a large public library in Montclair and a smaller branch library in Upper Montclair. The main branch offers film festivals as well as a good selection of books. For good bargains on used books, try Yesterday's Books and Records on Bloomfield Avenue.

Keep your eye on the "Happenings" column published weekly in the Arts/Entertainment section of The Montclair for more specific information. There's so much to do in Montclair, if you just open your eyes ... and your mind.

Student safety tips from campus police

It's a popular myth that colleges are exempt from the crime phenomenon that affects today's society. As much as we at The Monitor hate to disillusion you, it is our duty to emphasize that MSC is by no means "crime-free."

Consider that during the first six months of 1986 there were 181 Class One Uniform Crime Reported Offenses (rape, robbery, assault, theft, burglary, and assault) and 161 '86 worth of property reported stolen. This is not even taking into account that, according to campus police estimates, anywhere between 30 and 40 percent of all crime goes unreported.

Needless to say, crimes do take place on campus, so know how to safeguard yourself and your property. The campus police, under the direction of their new police chief, Phillip Galtre, suggest the following:

In the Dorms:

1. Keep your door locked at all times, regardless of how long you plan to be gone or how long you'll be napping.
2. Don't leave any exterior or interior doors open for easy personal return or for any friends.

3. Always try to ascertain who is knocking at the door before you open it.
4. Do not leave any valuable items in plain view.
5. Never lend your dorm key to anyone, even a friend. Immediately report lost or stolen keys to the police.
6. Mark or engrave valuables with your initials or driver's license number for identification. Campus police do have engraving tools for this purpose.
7. Be alert to all those attending your parties—especially uninvited strangers. However, keep in mind to put away all valuables before you have a party.

In Your Car:

1. Drive with doors locked whenever you're in the car and keep an eye out for strangers while your car is motionless.
2. When car is parked, make certain that doors are locked and that all windows are up. Stash valuables in trunk or take them with you. An alarm system or locking device (a mechanism that attaches to the steering wheel to prevent the car from being stolen) would be a good investment.

3. At night, park in well-lighted areas.
4. If you intend to leave your car parked for two or more days, you should move it to another lot at least once every 24 hours. Vehicles which remain stationary for long periods of time attract vandalism and theft.
5. Be more wary of activity in the parking lots. If you see anything suspicious, call the campus police at 893-5222 or by call box.

When You are on Foot:

Practice "defensive walking." Be conscious of your surroundings such as bushes and isolated spots where criminals could be hiding. Make use of the Escort Service weeknights from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. when nobody is around. You can arrange for an "escort" by calling campus police at extension 5222.

Furthermore, when you walk to or from your car or building and are alone, try to tag along with other people going in your direction. Walk with confidence and don't hitchhike.

General Tips

1. Do not leave anything unattended, even for a minute. This includes items of small value such as pencils, erasers, notepads, etc.
2. Don't be afraid to report suspicious activities to campus police or extension 5222 or by using one of 26 call boxes located all over campus (Getting to know where these boxes are could prove to be a great asset). You might be sparing someone a lot of grief, and besides, if it was your property in jeopardy, you'd wish some Good Samaritan would call the police.
3. If you are victimized, report the crime immediately, even if you are unharmed and only a small amount of property was taken. Statistics show that the sooner the crime is reported, the greater the chance of apprehension.
4. Remember, 893-4111 is for emergencies only. All other calls fall under the extension 5222 category.

On-campus parking regulations

Towing

The campus police will tow all cars that are parked on the roadway or parked illegally in a space for the physically challenged, in a crosswalk, near a fire hydrant, in a fire zone, or blocking parking aisles. Cars not parked in a properly-designated lot are also subject to towing (i.e. parking in a faculty parking lot). This is not a comprehensive list.

Towing fees are not available due to the fact that there is no contractual towing service at present. Cost to owners of towed vehicles is being negotiated at this time. These costs will be published as soon as possible.

Disabled Vehicles

Disabled vehicles which impede the flow of traffic must be removed as soon as possible. Call the campus police at extension 5222 to obtain a temporary permit for the time during which you will be arranging repair for your vehicle.

NOTE: Abandoned vehicles will be towed and the owner will receive a summons for abandonment. With this summons goes a $100 fine.

Visitors

Any guests arriving on campus must pick up a temporary parking permit at either the information booth on College Avenue or at the campus police office in Chapin Hall. Any vehicle parked on campus without a parking permit is subject to ticketing.

Ticketing

Anyone not adhering to parking regulations is subject to a summons. A copy of the complete parking regulations can be procured at campus police headquarters in Chapin Hall.

* To avoid being ticketed, make sure you have a proper decal or temporary parking permit and that your vehicle is properly parked in an appropriate lot between two white lines.

General Note

There is enough parking space on campus to accommodate everyone. If all the upper lots are occupied, proceed directly to the lower lots (near the Quarry). It means you will have to walk a little farther (or take the shuttle bus), but it's preferable to double-parking in other lots and thereby inconveniencing others and creating safety hazards, not to speak of being towed or ticketed. The shuttle buses regularly pass through the lower lots every 15-20 minutes from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Excitement reigns in MSC sports

By Jim Nicosia

Success is not something new to the world of MSC sports. Not in the least sense of the word.

Whether you're a die-hard sports fan with a soft spot in your heart for winning or just someone who likes to watch (or participate in) quality performances, you've come to the right place.

The first success story you're going to run into this fall is the MSC football squad. Last year's New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC) Champions finished the season with an 10-2 mark and advanced to the final game of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Eastern Regional playoffs before getting knocked off by Ithaca College.

Also participating in the fall is the MSC baseball team, fresh off their third-place finish in the 1986 NCAA Division III World Series. The Indians are a perennial NJAC power, and, come springtime, they will be looking for their fourth straight World Series appearance.

The MSC soccer team is coming off a transition year, but with a strong core returning this fall, the club looks to finish with a winning record.

Coming off their initial season in competition, the MSC Hockey Club looks to renew some of the excitement they brought to the campus last year. The Indians swamped defending champion Wagner College in the finals of the Metropolitan Collegiate Hockey Conference (MCHC) playoffs to be crowned champions in their very first year of existence.

By the middle of the fall semester, you'll be hearing a lot of things about the MSC wrestling and men's and women's basketball teams. Last season, the grapplers took the NCAA Division III championship for the first time in ten years.

The men's basketball program is always a consistent performer behind the coaching of Ollie Gelston, who captured his 400th coaching win last season.

The women's basketball team has sported even greater success in the two years since Jill Jeffrey took over the reigns as Head Coach. With what was becoming a floundering program, the women have rebuilt themselves back to dominance. Last season they sparkled at 18-6.

Excitement is the one word that comes to mind when describing the MSC swim teams. The women's swim team won their fourth straight State Championship title last year and look to repeat again this year. The men are going to try to equal last year's performance which included a second place finish in the Metropolitan Swimming Conference Championships that saw 11 school records fall.

The men's and women's track and field (and cross-country) teams are far from shabby, as well. The men and women placed second and third, respectively, in their conference championship meets last season. The men's team has been boosted by an increased turnout, while the women's squad performed tremendously with only seven athletes.

If there are any track and field athletes out there without a team to belong to, this is one area where you have an opportunity to be a part of a great team. A few more healthy bodies are all that's needed to make the MSC track and field teams championship caliber.

Last, but certainly not least, words of praise must also be uttered for the Indian tennis, softball, and lacrosse teams. The men's tennis team comes off one of their best seasons ever and, were it not for an abundance of rainouts, could have eclipsed the school record for number of wins.

The lacrosse squad has never failed to excite the fans who come to watch. Despite an up-and-down year and some untimely injuries, the Indians played near-.500 lacrosse.

The softball team has its share of laurels as well. They have been one of the most consistent success stories the campus has seen. Like the MSC baseball team, only the NCAA Division III Championship has eluded them, but this spring sees a big nucleus returning from last season's 29-13 team.

If any team has been left out, it's due to space and not lack of quality performances. Teams like the gymnastics, field hockey, and golf teams boast their own success and, with improved turnouts, could be championship quality as well. If there's one thing this campus has got a monopoly on, it's excitement in athletics. You'll see it on every playing field, in every gym, and in The Montclair sports pages every week.

Even today, there are still a few students who don't have an HP calculator.

Burning the midnight oil may be necessary. Burning the 2:00 or 3:00 or 4:00 AM oil is absurd.

Especially when an HP calculator can get the answers you want — in time to get a good night's sleep.

For instance, our HP-15C Professional Scientific Calculator has more built-in advanced math and statistical power than any other calculator. Our HP-41 Advanced Scientific Calculators have even more potential.

That's because there are better than 2500 software packages available for them — more than for any other calculator.

There's even a special plug-in software package (we call it the Advantage Module) that's designed to handle the specific problems an engineering student has to solve in his, or her, course work.

*No wonder professionals in engineering and the physical sciences widely regard HP calculators as the best you can get.

So check one out. Then, when your mother calls to ask if you're getting enough sleep, you won't have to lie.

By the way, if you want more information, just give us a call at 800-FOR-HPPC. Ask for Dept. 658C.

MILLER BREWING CO., MILWAUKEE, WI

Dramarama: local band reaches for international fame

By Pasquale DiFulco

I've got a secret! Wanna hear it? Then listen to Cinema Verite. The band is Dramarama. Remember that, because it's only a matter of time before that name comes up again.

This local band (all the guys hail from Wayne) got its start selling records and ended up making them. Bassist Chris Carter and lead throat John Easdale used to sell imported vinyl out of a joint called Looneytune Records. Clientele included Ian Hunter and Mick Ronson. One day, the guys said, "What the hell!" and recorded a pretty decent cover of Lou Reed's "Femme Fatale." After playing some clubs, they released an EP, Comedy, in late 1984.

Jose Ruiz, a D.J. and music critic in France, got hold of Comedy, played it, and the French ate it up—enough so to send it to Number One. What did the boys do with all this sudden fame? "We went to France," Carter said. "It was a safe move."

While in France, they recorded Cinema Verite for New Rose Records while still under the guise of their own label, ? Records. All five songs on the EP appear on the album.

"Visiting the Zoo" kicks in with drummer Jesse's pounding backbeat. Guitarists Pete Wood and Mr. E Boy join in with some backbone of their own. Then Easdale assaults you with his barroom-scarred voice, some hot licks are thrown in for good measure, and two weeks later you catch yourself singing the song while you're driving to work.

"Questions?" is a lost lover's lament with guts and grinding guitars. "Does she talk about me?/Does she talk about me?" Any guy who has ever lost his lady can identify here.

"Scenario" is about "some girl," according to Easdale. The haunting chorus and hard-hitting lyrics are mesmerizing. "Sister's in the Everglades/Mother swallows razor blades/Father makes the flags for all the Labor Day parades." This song has bite.

"Anything, Anything" was the most-requested single this spring on Rodney Bingenheimer's show on KROQ, 92 K-Rock's sister station out in Pasadena. I can understand why. It's an adrenaline-pumping song that makes you want to move.

Pianist Theothorus Athanasious Ellenis (what?) introduces a cover of David Bowie's "Candidate" with a tender touch of the keyboards, and the song slowly whips itself into a frenzy.

It's nice to hear a remake do justice to the original.

"Emerald City" shows off Dramarama's ability to play and sing with soul, in addition to kick-ass rhythm and blues and rock and new wave and...it's tough to lump this band into one category. I guess they can be called a crossover band. Whatever term you use, Dramarama is HOT!

Critic Robert Christgau (Village Voice, Creem, Playboy) gave Cinema Verite an A-. Robert O'Brien featured the band in Rockbill, where he stated, "After listening to this record, all doubts will be quelled. I love it!"

Pasquale DiFulco is telling you to open your ears. Dramarama is going to be big, no doubt. Catch their act at the China Club. Buy the album. Request it on WMSC. But do something. Quick.

Rock and Roll Corner

Pasquale DiFulco

Welcome back, you groovy guys and gals!...Old business: Amnesty International: good show, huh? Dragged on just a little bit you say? Maybe if Joni Mitchell hadn't stopped the show dead in its tracks it would've worked itself into a powerhouse ending. I have nothing against the woman or her music, but I would have preferred seeing her play a set with Stanley Jordan, rather than between Bryan Adams and U2...I know you're just dying to know what my top vinyl picks are for this summer. In no particular order...Jimmy Buffet, "Flordays," Andreas Vollenweider, "Down to the Moon," Steve Winwood, "Back in the High Life," David Lee Roth, "Eat 'Em and Smile"...Hot rumours dept.: Bruce to release a multi-record live collection in time for Christmas...The Police also have a live set on deck with "a couple new songs"...Keith Richards may be going solo...Trivia time: tell me, what rocker was born with the moniker Elias McDaniel?...Til next week, ta ta...

Sports clinic focuses on thinking positively

By Perry Schwarz

"WHATEVER THE MIND CAN CONCEIVE AND BELIEVE, CAN BE ACHIEVED."

Competition is a vehicle that separates the winners from the losers. Everyone must face competition at some point in their life. When that time comes, the person must be ready to deal with the situation mentally as well as physically.

It takes a sound mind along with a sound body to accomplish something on or off the athletic field. Athletes traditionally develop their bodies to peak performance, but not their minds.

Nationally-known sports psychologist, Dr. Rob Gilbert developed a workshop to achieve peak performance and positive motivation through the mind. With the assistance of MSC's Continuing Education program, Gilbert devised "The Winner's Workshop." These are one-day workshops which are held off-campus. Gilbert ran the clinics throughout the summer, the last one being on August 23, at the Holiday Inn in Wayne.

At the beginning of the clinic, Gilbert establishes the fact that absolute peak performance of a sport can be obtained by training your mind. He strived on getting a person in touch with himself and learning to love himself. Words like can't, not, or impossible do not exist in Gilbert's vocabulary.

He uses simple exercises to help the participants realize that there's nothing that cannot be accomplished. In less than four minutes, Gilbert trains his students to remember ten words and a 32-digit number. The key to success he says, is strategy.

"When you're in school and a teacher asks you to memorize something, she/he never tells you how to do it," Gilbert said. "I believe practice doesn't make perfect, but perfect practice makes perfect. The only time period a person's mind should be on when achieving perfect performance is now. Not the past or future, but now!"

Many of Gilbert's techniques appear difficult, but once the "little voice" telling you it's impossible is silenced, the 32-digit number can be mastered in two minutes, and juggling, which he teaches the group, within five.

That's right - juggling in five minutes! "People don't give themselves enough credit," says Gilbert. They can accomplish any feat they want to, but the person must believe in him/herself and apply mental force to the task. The common problem is that people are negative about themselves and concentrate too much on strengths without building up the weaknesses.

"There are millions of strategies out there," said Gilbert. "I'm concerned with giving my students the one that best works for them."

"This clinic is much different than I ever attended," said one student. "The people learn because of the act of participation and not theoretical information. Ron uses the applied theory to practical use in a clever way."

Gilbert said one should enjoy what they are doing in order to reach the specific goal. For example, weightlifting where Gilbert's theory plays a vital part.

"Aim high, aim far, and aim for the stars," said Gilbert. "Sports psychology is my life's work. It took a great deal of time to put 'The Winner's Workshop' together and I love doing it. The two main reasons why I do it is because I love to teach, and I love to help people reach inside themselves and develop their full winning potential."

Additional workshops have been scheduled in the fall so many more can take advantage of a "mind workout." They will be held October 26 and 27, and December 7 and 15. All are held at the Holiday Inn in Wayne and more information can be obtained by calling 893-5154.

What's What in MSC sports

Track and Field- The MSC Season finished on a high note for the Spring of 1986. A few athletes were entered into the rank of All-America.

In the women's division, Eileen O'Connor was the winner in the triple-jump. She set the school record, and in the process became the CTC and State champion for the Spring of 1986.

In the men's division, Ahmad Field was chosen to the All-American squad for the 400 meter hurdles and Dan Dooley was chosen All-American for his talents with the javelin. Congratulations to these three fine track stars!

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Anyone interested in joining the Lady Indians hoopsters for the 1986-87 season is invited to a general meeting to be held Tuesday, Sept. 9, at 4:00 p.m. in the Panzer Gym.

The MSC golf team is seeking new members. The team has a small fall schedule planned for this year. Currently, the squad has four returning players, and a few starting spots are open. Anyone who is interested in trying out is encouraged to call either Coach Pete Famiano at 731-0833 or 325-2135, or team member Norm Kopack at 444-1563. The first tournament is September 17, so all interested are asked to call as soon as possible.

Opportunity Fund (EOF) program this summer and assist with the Big League Baseball Camp held on campus.

"There are many things I wanted to do last year, but couldn't because of my weight," Hernandez said. "Now I am playing football in a comfortable, enjoyable way."

Hernandez not only toned up his body, but his mind as well. He is prepared for a dynamic, exciting season, but if something goes wrong he knows that he has the strength to bounce back mentally and produce effectively. Although the corporate fitness major has personal goals, he also has the desire to provide encouragement and support for the rookies.

"We have a lot of new personnel at the running back position so I'm willing to work with these new guys. If I have to come out of a game, I want my teammates to be comfortable with my replacement," Hernandez said. "They (the new players) have a lot of physical talent, but now their minds must be molded in order to play MSC football and I will help them do that."

Position coach Rich O'Connor worked with Hernandez for the last two seasons. He noticed the back's improvements and feels he can utilize him much more this season.

"I'm happy Eddie lightened himself while maintaining his strength," O'Connor said. "I think he improved by becoming a complete back, and with his agility he should be able to handle the ball more than in the past."

Hernandez's motivation in untiring. He was mostly used last season as a blocker, but with his new-and-improved image, Hernandez will be ready to take on bigger and more important tasks.

MSC's Ed Hernandez: Dedicated to the game

MSC's already potent offense will be bolstered by running back Ed Hernandez.

By Perry Schwarz

"MAN'S HAPPINESS IN LIFE AND FOOTBALL IS THE RESULT OF HIS OWN EFFORT."

MSC running back Ed Hernandez didn't reach his potential until the mid-point of last season. This year, there's a new backfield, a new attitude, but most of all there's a new and improved Hernandez. New and improved for many reasons.

"At the conclusion of last season, I took a week off for relaxation," Hernandez said. "Once that week was over I went back to work on bettering my game so I would be at my best shape when training camp and the season arrived."

The two-year fullback weighed 243 pounds at the conclusion of the 1985 season. On August 22 (opening day of camp), he reported in at a trim weight of 228. Hernandez concentrated on sprints, speedwork, and agility drills. In addition to his intense, dedicated training he still found time to be a resident assistant for the Educational

MSC football team prepares for '86

Training camp: the Indians are back

By Perry Schwarz

"VICTORY IN SPITE OF ALL, VICTORY HOWEVER LONG AND HARD THE ROAD MAYBE; FOR WITHOUT VICTORY THERE IS NO SURVIVAL" - VIDKUN QUISLING

The time has arrived again for MSC's football training camp. The rookies join the veterans in one of the toughest periods of the football season. In fact, those who survive camp usually stay with the team for the entire season. The advantage veterans have over the rookies is that they know what's in store for the next 10 days.

Many players and fans have a naive perception about camp. Camp is hard on the body and mind. Everything done in the 10 days is by schedule. Practice, dining, meetings - all of it is according to a schedule devised by the coaches. The players are required to follow it. Those who are not in shape mentally or physically, when camp opens are the ones who filter out of the program.

"I hope you guys did a lot of road-work this summer," head coach Rick Giancola said at the organized meeting August 22nd. "It's important you are in shape because we want you to concentrate on football the next few days. You should already be in shape."

The faces of a select few drop. They are the ones who won't make it to Day Three. To give you an insight of what these players go through here is a three-day account of the MSC football preparation period.

DAY I: The players and coaches congregate in Richardson Hall to hear the law of training camp and the rules for the season. The first is that "no female cousins" are to visit.

Upon dismissal, group meetings are held in Partridge and Richardson Hall. All the mental preparation is done for the next week in these meetings.

Defensive back coach Terry Porter presented his goals to the secondary personnel in no uncertain terms.

"I would like us to lead the nation in interceptions and win another championship," Porter said.

For the veterans, the strategies are just a review, but for the newcomers, MSC football will occupy their mind for the next few days, and all they will see are X's and O's.

DAY II: (9 a.m.-12 p.m.) The information introduced last night is put to work on the field. Throughout the practice the atmosphere is quiet and business-like. There is no time for "playing around." At the end of practice, the players run sprints. The sprints help build up the stamina and increase the running form of the athlete. But they also hurt, noticeable just by the looks on the players' faces covered by sweat.

12 p.m.-2 p.m.: Lunch and a brief cooling period occupy the time. Just as the players get comfortable in their rooms and in the lounge of Blanton Hall, it's time to return to the field.

2 p.m.-5 p.m.: After lunch the players drag themselves back to the field. Many of the guys carpool to the field. The final practice of the day is an intensive one. The motivated players push through the form run and other sprints. Form running is where the players run as fast as they can without gaining distance. It's similar to running in place.

7:30 p.m.-9 p.m.: It's meeting time. The players respond to their assigned rooms with the paper and pencil supplied to them. Extra information is added and the system becomes much more complex. Tonight more information is added and by the end of camp, the system should be in effect with a few adjustments.

The final practice was on Labor Day. While everyone was enjoying themselves at home, the Indians were sweating for the last time at camp. It's the last day the players give it their all in every area, from special teams to the defensive unit.

Breakfast, practice, lunch, practice, dinner and team meetings were the standard routine for the 10 days. Everything of major importance was introduced in the 10 days. Within those 10 days a few highlights took place on and off the field which brought a chuckle to the team and made camp proceed more smoothly.

AUGUST 25: The players were happy to see new faces on campus. Many of them combed the dorms to assist young girls who were in need of instruction on opening the doors.

AUGUST 26: The Residence Hall Federation picnic/dance provided entertainment and extra workouts for the players. Sophomore Ahmad Field had a great time on the dancefloor. He moved in every position possible from 7 p.m. to the end of the dance. Some of the moves he put on the dancefloor would be penalties on the football field.

AUGUST 27: The players had another night on the campus. Many were making moves (not football) at the freshman orientation dance sponsored by LASO, BSCU and the SGA.

AUGUST 29: The moment has come. The annual rookie show is held. The newcomers perform for the veterans, by using any talent they have. The vets look forward to the night and stock up on food-just in case they get hungry (or if the rookies do). The highlighted act was the "Rookie Shuffle."

AUGUST 30: It's picture day. Team and individual shots are taken. McKinley Boston and Charlie Cocuzza tried desperately to hold in their gut for the picture, but the ribbing and laughter from the players was just too much for them to handle.

A team scrimmage is held in the afternoon. This is the real test for the players, and the coaches get a chance to look at the players in a game situation. After the scrimmage the players go their separate ways till Monday.

SEPTEMBER 1: The final day of camp is here! From pre-practice to form running, the players are sharp and maintain a loud, aggressive intensity.

The intensity is broken for a few minutes, when Coach Porter was tripped by ELMO (the little green guy in the turf that makes people fall). That's it, camp is over and the defending NJAC champions will face Muhlenberg College this Saturday.

COACHES VIEW

HEAD COACH RICK GIANCOLA: "We had a few players that didn't return, but we are going to play with what we have. I see a lot of talent, and many of the young guys have a shot to play with time. Defensively, John DeBarreau and Matt Clark demonstrated hustle, determination, and quickness. Cornerback David Harris has also been impressive. Offensively, Joe Fernandez had a great camp."

"Overall, we had an enthusiastic camp. I think the key to our success is the continuity of the coaching staff. With the exception of one or two coaches the same staff has been in tact for the last 10 years and that means something to the head coach and the athlete.

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR MCKINLEY BOSTON: "We have a lot of talent. Some of it is unproven, but that will change with time. There have been a few players that will make an impact on our season."

Cornerback Joe Altomage has been a pleasant surprise. He worked hard and is responding to the challenge of being a starter. Freshman linebacker John Hernandez has showed he will be able to help us in the defense.

In regards to the big play co-captains Steve Scioscia and Dan Zakashefski will be team leaders. When you have two players like them in a game, the big play can occur any time. They are solid players and have big play potential."

SPECIAL TEAMS COACH AL WEBER: "We have no problems with the kickers this year, but we are still not at the level we should be. We are looking for the best players to be out there. I am looking for athletes who are physical, aggressive, quick, and most of all wreckless with their bodies. We can't get beat on special teams."

Our mental mistakes will open the door for our opponent to score. Just as in the Wagner game when Terry Underwood ran a kickoff back for a score. Anyone can win on specials and that's why the best people must be out there. It's still too early to make a statement about the specialties.

OFFENSIVE COACH CHARLIE COCUZZA: Unavailable for comment. After the Muhlenberg scrimmage more will be able to be said. That's the inside look of the MSC Indians. The NJAC and Division III quarterfinalists of a year ago are back in full force. And this year they might just take it all, but right now it's one game at a time starting with the scrimmage and then Wagner. Hold on, it is going to be one explosive, hot and point-scoring season!
